HEALTH BOARD APPROVES TWO SANITARIANS

The Wilmington Board of Health, Monday night, finished interviews with applicants for the position of Sanitarian and Health Officer of Wilmington, and approved two, the names of whom were forwarded to TM Cecil Lancaster for his final choice.

A letter is to be written to the TM in which one of the two will be named as having 'first refusal' in the Health Board's approved list.

The board approved four stable licenses, and received a resignation from Mrs Rae Burns who finds that she has too much workload without a sanitarian.

One bill that was signed was for $25 for an engineer to inspect property on a Saturday. The comment was that it was expensive, but that the property owner had been waiting for the inspection for several weeks.

SKATING CARNIVAL FEB 1ST

The annual Wilmington Skating Carnival, sponsored by the Recreation Department in co-operation with the Wilmington Skating Club is to be held on Saturday February 3rd at 1 pm with a postponement date of Sunday at 1 pm.

Leo O'Connell Sr., the Old Man of the O'Connell Clan, is to be in charge of arrangements and the races will be under the supervision of Larry Cushing of the Wilmington Recreation Department. Refreshments are to be served at the clubhouse. There will be trophies for the 1st, 2nd, and 3rd place winners in each class.

Wilmington people who can't skate, little tots on double-runners and old timers and in-between-timers can all take part in the Carnival of Skating. People who wish to form a committee or otherwise help should call Leo O'Connell Sr at OL 8 2780 and offer their service.

MRS ELFMAN BACK FROM MEXICO

Mrs Louis Elfman returned from Mexico City last Saturday with nothing to say about her reported quest for $90,000 in funds supposedly missing from her late husband's estate.

She was enjoying the situation immensely as she talked with the Town Crier. There was a twinkle in her eye.

Mrs Elfman wanted to know who had tipped off the Town Crier. The Town Crier had to tell her the source was confidential, and asked her if she had found the money.

Her only reply was 'It wasn't in $1 bills'.

ROUTINE CHECK PAYS OFF

A routine check, at 1:30 am by Officers Brennan and Palmer of the Wilmington Police, on January 13th paid off in the arrest of a Billerica man who has been using a Wilmington address.

Raymond Scheffer, who gave a Taft road Wilmington address to Judge Henchey in Woburn Court, the same day, was fined $50 for operating after his license had been suspended, and also found guilty of giving a false name and address to the Wilmington Police.

Scheffer was re-arrested after appearing in Woburn Court by the Cambridge Police, who had four warrants for his arrest.

NEW ENGLAND OUTDOOR MATCHES HERE JAN 27-8

Wilmington will be host to hundreds of out-of-state skaters and their families on the weekend of January 27 - 28, when the annual N.S.A. New England Outdoor Championships are to be held here.

The Wilmington Skating Club is asking that families of the town volunteer to provide a night's lodging for out-of-state skaters, and thus help to house the visitors.

Leo O'Connell Sr., 5 Hunt Rd. OL 8 2780 is chairman of the Housing Committee, and asks that Wilmington residents who have even room for a cot call him and volunteer their service.

If there is room for a small family it will be even better. The Skating Club will greatly appreciate the service.

MORE CANDIDATES OFFER NAMES

There are now eight candidates for the School Committee and four candidates for the Board of Selectmen, in the March elections - and still no official candidate for the Housing Authority.

Alfred J. Brewster of Dorchester Street has offered his name as a candidate for the School Committee. A life long resident of Wilmington he is a teacher by profession. Charles R Greene of Shady Lane Drive has taken out papers for Selectman. He has been a resident of Wilmington for nine years.

James P Donahue is still the mystery candidate. Chairman of the Housing Authority, he has taken out papers - but no one knows what he is running for.

WILWOOD PARENTS CLUB MEETS MONDAY NIGHT

The Wildwood Parents Club is to meet Monday night, Jan 22nd after a Parent-Teacher's conference at 8 pm in the school. Teachers will be in their rooms from 7 to 8 pm.

The meeting should prove interesting in view of some of the questions being asked, such as: Who is to occupy the new No. Wilmington Intermediate School? Is it to be used as a combination Junior High and Elementary School? and What courses are to be offered?

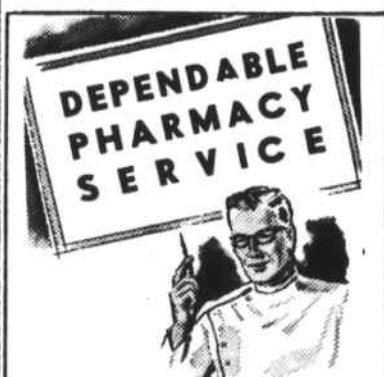

Harold Shea, Superintendent of Schools, Anthony De Luca, newly appointed Principal of the school, Ralph Ambrose, Principal of the Wildwood School, and several members of the School Committee are to be present for the discussion.

The meeting is open to the public and particularly to parents of children who will soon enter the new school. A question box is to be provided for written questions by the audience.

PUBLISHER TO SPEAK AT REALTY PANEL

Capt. Larz Neilson, publisher of the Town Crier of Wilmington, will be among a group of local and Boston newspaper people serving on a panel when 'The Realtor Meets the press', at the monthly dinner meeting of the Eastern Middlesex Board of Realtors, next Monday evening, at the Colonial, in Lynnfield.

The EMBR is the first board in the state to hold such a meeting, according to Massachusetts President Alexander S Beal. This meeting is a direct outgrowth of the state association's efforts for Realtor Boards to more securely fix roots for good public relations.

WINNER OF 5 STATE & REGIONAL AWARDS

It's a funny thing, we can't say something good about our Town Manager in this column with out everyone thinking we are jumping on the poor guy again.

Last week one of our readers wrote in to comment on the Lancaster Kennels sign on his car etc., so we wrote a piece to say that if the TM wants a couple of dogs that's his business, and no one else's.

The next morning we were visited by a couple of gents who were almost but not quite shaking in their boots. It seems they had borrowed the TM's car, without his quite knowing of it, and painted on the Lancaster Kennels sign as sort of a Christmas gift, unbeknownst to the TM.

Anyway, we say he can have the sign, and it is nobody's business.

But there were other visitors too - people who wanted to know how come he could have a kennel, and Nicky a dump, and they have to obey the Zoning laws.

Well, the Kennel isn't part of the Zoning Laws, it comes under Chapter 39 of the General Laws if we remember correctly, and anyone can have a kennel in Wilmington if he just goes up to the Town Clerk and offers to pay for it. The Town Clerk will refuse, and that will be that.

Just don't try to breed dogs, that's all.

But, other than his dog kennel, the TM is still just bumping along. It's kind of funny, too.

Readers may remember that last fall we discovered that poles were popping out of the ground, on Federal and Concord Streets. The day after we discovered this, according to residents of the area, the Highway Department was down there on the job, after a two or three month delay.

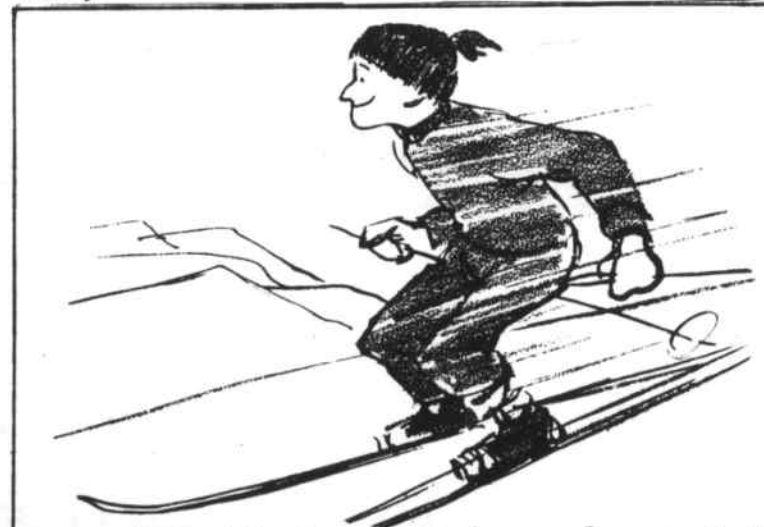

A few weeks ago we talked in this column about how the Building By Law Committee had been thrown to the wolves in 1961.

That was the time that the TM suddenly got busy and called the chairman to see if he could get something ready for the 1962 Town Meeting. Of course it was just a co-incidence.

But the chairman is sick - he has ulcers - and no one can guess at this time as to whether or not there will be anything in the 1962 meeting.

If there is, the TM has promised, there will be public hearings ahead of time, such as were originally slated for this committee, before they were thrown to the wolves.

But what is probably the prize package of the Bump on the Log Technique is the Joe Slater Story.

Sometimes it's fun to take a chance. But taking chances on insurance is courting financial disaster. Better see

FORM 1040

To the lawyer's office

They march in troops

To find those holes

Which have the loops.

Joe Slater has been on the Planning Board and The Board of Appeals, and altogether has sort of worked his way around the municipal angles and corners. He might be described as being of the Danny Gillis - Bill Beers School, in that he is always speaking up his mind on subjects.

Anyway, last year the TM decided that he had had enough of Joe Slater sitting on the Planning Board and finding out things that hadn't been done. When Joe's term of office expired the TM wasn't going to renew it. At least that was what he seemed to say to some people, who understood it quite clearly.

But then the TM just bumped along, and forgot all about Joe and his term of office.

In order to understand what has happened one must know how the TM runs things - he rewards his friends and punishes his enemies, and this factor had its part in the Joe Slater story.

One evening, in a Planning Board meeting, some three or four months after Joe Slater's term expired, and he hadn't been either re-appointed or fired, Joe spoke up to say he would not be attending any more meetings. Joe really made it quite dramatic - going to fade away like the old soldier, etc. He felt that if he hadn't been reappointed there could be some legal question as to his right to vote on crucial issues.

Of course the Town Crier was there, noting Joe's words - and so was the Town Engineer, who is one of those boys who have been rewarded by the Town Manager, and the Town Engineer made certain that the TM got the story at 9 am sharp the next morning.

Cecil was so flustered that he forgot all about he was going to fire Joe Slater, and he called the Town Crier pronto, to announce that he had just reappointed Joe to the Planning Board. -- Called it all an oversight.

But that's the way the Town Hall goes. When the Town Crier prints a story - or is just about to - that's the time for action!

Actually, it's a funny world. Here we have a baker's half dozen candidates for the School Committee, with one of the finest Superintendents of Schools running things - and all our Selectmen candidates can be counted on one hand forgetting the thumb! What's the world coming to, anyway?

Last fall the Town Crier got some interesting photographs which we offered to show to the chairman of the Board of Selectmen. He seems to be the only person in the upper echelon who ever does anything now-a-days, but he never got around to look at them. He's a nice fellow, but Doc Fagan is sitting on top of him, telling him to stay home and keep quiet - so

The Town Crier will show these photographs to any candidate for Selectman who comes in and asks to see them. They are quite interesting and they show one of the points on which we have spoken in this column.

And, while we are at it - let's talk about the Holy Budget.

Last year, as the reader may remember, it was a big secret until the last moment, and then the Town Crier discovered a $28,000 error. Nicky De Felice, who was then Chairman of the Board of Selectmen stood up in Town Meeting and said "We were going to tell you about it".

So this year it might well be that the figures that are going to affect the budget are 12418. We aren't going to say where the decimal point fits into those figures, and it isn't absolutely certain that they will mean a thing come Town Meeting Time, but at this stage of the game in the Holy Budget they are very significant figures - and we aren't talking about the Town Manager's salary raise, which is all that interests some Selectmen.

She was born in 1821, and lived at the Middlesex Ave address for more than forty years before her death in 1893. Many of the people in the various Carter families in Wilmington have had their eccentricities, but Sabra was one who made some of them pay off, for she started packaging flower seeds for friends, and built it into a fine business, believed to be the first commercial seed-packet business in the United States.

Her business prospered so well that she added to her home several times, and after her death when it was sold at auction the house was divided into three parts - two of which stand today at the Main Street end of Middlesex Avenue, opposite Weinberg's Department store.

Sabra was a common name in those days, and she should not be confused with the Sabra D J Carter who founded the Carter Lectures in Wilmington.

Sabra's mother, it is reported, was the person who gave to the Town of Wilmington what is now Wilmington Common, although there are other stories on this same subject, but it was Sabra who gave the town the Town Clock, in the steeple of the Congregational Church.

Sabra was a student of languages, and had a fairly good command of French, and a good knowledge of both Latin and Greek, but she went abroad only once, when she was about 70 years old, to spend three months in France and Switzerland.

It was when she returned that she set the town agog, by a proposal to set up some trust funds - proposals which the town accepted, and then later rejected.

For Sabra hated three things, dogs, tobacco and liquor, and in addition, as a good sharp business woman she wanted to drive good sharp bargains, - bargains which the town felt were not needed.

Sabra owned 10 shares of a company known as the Lombard Investment Company, another 20 shares of Denver Electric Light Company, and 20 shares of the Howard State Bank of Kansas which she proposed to give to the town. The value was about $5000.

In return the town was to spend the income on a number of items.

The Lombard income was to be spent in painting the homes of the townspeople, as needed -

Except - no one who owned a dog, or had owned one for the past two years could apply. Neither could a person apply if he had ever used tobacco, and furthermore he must be a member of a temperance society.

The income from the Denver Electric Light was to be used one half for providing scientific works and travel books for the public library and the other half for public lectures on the same subjects - but the lectures must be on a Wednesday afternoon.

The Howard State Bank income was to be divided into 8 parts. Two parts were for renovating cemetery stones, 1 for keeping the Carter graveyard in good condition, 2 for planting trees by the wayside, and 3 for buying settees which would be set by the wayside for travellers to use while resting.

The town voted, in annual town meeting, to accept the offer, but one month later the Selectmen voted unanimously to reject it.

Henry Blanchard, who was the Chairman of the Board, said that Sabra had drawn up a legal document that tied the town up in knots, and guaranteed safe keeping of the money with no benefit to the town.

There was, of course, a lot of excitement, and the Boston papers reported on the business with some amusement, but Sabra's money was not accepted.

Sabra died a few years later, and she saw to it that her body was buried in the Woburn cemetery - she wouldn't be buried in a town that didn't want her money.

There was a big contest to break her will. She had left her estate to form a home of her house for "poor girls of Wilmington", and some of the provisions were that the girls had to wear her gowns, which were described as "lavender".

The contest alleged that she was insane, but the judge did not so rule. He said she was just a "queer character".

The executors found that it would be impossible to keep to the provisions of her will, and thus accomplished the same purpose. They sold the house and all her belongings at public auction, and probably divided the estate as they had been planning anyway.

WOULD NAME RTE 93 'SAMUEL ADAMS HIGHWAY'

One of the bills before the 1962 session of the State Legislature proposes to name Route 93 'The Samuel Adams Highway.'

Presented by Mrs. Lena Leavitt Fahlow of Woburn, and Rep. Tom Donohue of Woburn, the bill is a repeat of one that was turned down last year by the Legislature. Mrs. Fahlow and Rep. Donohue were told last year that because Route 93 was paid with 90% Federal funds no such name could be given to it.

But the State of New Hampshire named its portion of Route 93 the Alan Shepherd Highway, and with this as an example Mrs. Fahlow and Rep. Donohue are hoping to get their bill passed by the Legislature this year.
